ADMISSION RANKING PROCEDURE

All applicants for admission are ranked according to the points they achieve in the admission ranking procedure.

The admission ranking procedure is based on:

- 1) evaluation of academic achievement in the university undergraduate study, determined according to the overall grade point average achieved during the course of study; and
- 2) an online additional assessment of motivation for enrolling in the study programme and scientific and research interests in the field.

Applicants for admission to the study programme are required to take the additional assessment. Failure to attend is considered withdrawal from the admission process. A negative assessment in the additional assessment constitutes an exclusion criterion.

Applicants are entitled to enrolment according to their order on the ranking list until the enrolment quota is filled.

An applicant who has been granted the right to enrol but fails to enrol by the prescribed deadline forfeits that right.
